

Lansing City Lines of Confrontation (Zones)

"Zone" 4

This area is the most "risky" line of confrontation. Whenever the opposing team has the ball, the defending team will apply constant pressure. City will use this tactic in these situations:

- 1.) Down in the game.
- 2.) Opposing team is weak.

The purpose of choosing this Zone is to set an aggressive tone as well as win the ball higher up the court. City will play high-pressure man-to-man in Zone 4.

"Zone" 3

This area is the "City Way" line of confrontation. There are 3 types of defense typically used in this Zone. (Man-to-Man, Match-up Man, 2-2 Zone) Whenever the opposing team enters this area, the defending team will apply pressure. The defending team will allow the attacking team to have possession of the ball in Zone 4. City will use this tactic frequently. The purpose of choosing this Zone is to set an aggressive tone as well as win the ball higher up the court. City puts trust in winning their individual math-ups when establishing Zone 3 line of confrontation.

"Zone" 2

This area is the most "safe" line of confrontation set in futsal. There are four types of defense typically used in this Zone. (Man-to-Man, Match-up Man, 2-2 Zone and 1-2-1 Zone) Whenever the opposing team enters this area, the defending team will apply pressure. The defending team will allow the attacking team to have possession of the ball in Zones 3-4. City will use this tactic in a couple of situations.

- 1.) Opposing team flies the keeper.
- 2.) Protecting a lead.
- 3.) Small Courts.
- 4.) City is the weaker team.
- 5.) Feeling a new opponent out.

"Zone" 1

This area is the most important area to defend on the court. The line of confrontation is set around the 2nd PK spot. Whenever the opposing team enters this area, the defending team will apply pressure. The defending team will allow the attacking team to have possession of the ball in Zones 2-4. City will only use this tactic when we are in a 4v3 situation due to a Red card.
